I wasn’t the least bit impressed with Aruba’s show of force (letting their workforce off for a half a day to search) or the Dutch’s show of force with the F16 fly bys.

When the nerves in the foramina are irritated or pinched by a bulging disk, narrowed “nerve canal” or bone spur, the resulting inflammation can cause pain, numbness, or tingling.

Of course I’m not “cured” and I still get way too excited and upset sometimes, and depressed; but to a much lesser degree with lithium therapy.

Designed to treat humans, on chickens in a move meant to stem the spread of antibiotic resistance I love.
