to argue that since current laws are ineffective we need more of them doesn’t sound libertarian to me have you ever heard or read about the old fashioned apothecaries? an apothecary was a medical professional who would create and dispense medications to doctors, surgeons and patients.